Wallace Offers 54-Billion Budget

Bases Less on Arms Cost, More on Welfare of Public

Washington, Feb. 14 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace offered America today a $54,000,000,000 "budget for abundance" based on less spending for military items and more for public welfare.

The 1949 candidate for president on the Progressive party ticket called a news conference to explain the difference between President Truman's views on government income-and-outgo, and his own.

Wallace's main points:
1. President Truman's policy doesn't take into account that "the way to peace is open," that "the head of the Russian government, for the third time in two years, has offered to negotiate a treaty of peace and mutual disarmament." Wallace said he would cut in half the approximately $14,000,000,000 military expenditure proposed by the President.

2. Establishment of a world development and reconstruction fund, within the United Nations, "to repair the ravages of war, strengthen the economy of the European nations, and develop the industrially backward and colonial countries." For this, he would spend $6,700,000,000 instead of allocating it to foreign military and economic aid.

3. Reduction of individual income taxes and heavy increases in corporation taxes. Wallace figured his budget would total $54,000,000,000 and that the President's would amount to at least $45,000,000,000—and more if expanded plans for a foreign alliance and military aid goes through.

On civil rights, Wallace said: "Discrimination cannot be fought with token forces. We would take the $20 million that Truman has set aside for the F.B.I. and the Civil Service Commission's loyalty investigations with their star chamber proceedings, proscriptive and black-listing features, and use this sum of money, together with any additional sums required, to bring to an end the system of discrimination and segregation which has made the Negro and other national groups second class citizens."

Payments Are High
New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—New York state unemployment insurance payments last month were nearly twice as high as in January of last year. The State Labor Department reported yesterday that benefits last month were $25,543,685, compared with $13,616,913 in the same month of 1948. Officials said the increased unemployment might result in a sharp drop in merit-rating refunds to employers.

Pius Views Situation As Alarming

No Civil Society Endures When Religion Is Hit and God Is 'Driven Into Exile,' He Says

Pontiff Says Something Wrong at Time of Primate's Trial

Vatican City, Feb. 14 (AP)—Pope Pius XII declared today that when a civil government contradicts divine and human rights "bishops and the faithful themselves are bound by their conscience to resist unjust laws."

Addressing a secret and extraordinary consistory of the College of Cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church on the case of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, the Pontiff asked prayers to the end that: "...those who rashly trample upon the liberty of the church and the rights of human conscience may at length understand that no civil society can endure when religion has been suppressed and God, as it were, driven into exile."

The Pope said, "our soul is crushed with most bitter grief" by the trial and condemnation of the Hungarian primate.

The Pope told 16 cardinals of the Vatican and Italian Sees that the protests throughout the non-Communist world against the treatment of the cardinal. Then he added:

"But, as you are aware, the full light of publicly did not shine over the trial of this prelate, who deserved so well of all, in defending the religion of his ancestors and in the restoration of Christian morals. In fact, from the beginning, the people outside Hungary who asked permission to be present at the trial were refused permission if they seemed likely to judge impartially or to give a sincere report: This led them to believe, and all upright and honest men as well, that those who were conducting the trial in Budapest seemed to be afraid to allow all to see what was taking place."

"But although the facts have not been reliable made known or passed clearly and completely, we cannot omit mentioning the judgment which all civilized people have passed on this trial."

"Disruption, Real Motive
The principle object of the trial," the Pope said, "was to disrupt the Catholic Church in Hungary and precisely for the purpose set forth in the sacred scriptures."

"I shall strike the shepherd and the sheep of the flock shall be dispersed." (Mat. XXVI, 31). The Pope declared Cardinal Mindszenty's physical condition during the trial was "inexplicable except as the result of secret influences which may not be publicly revealed; to prove this there is the fact that a man endowed with the full vigor of a powerful nature suddenly appeared weak and mentally unbalanced."

The Pontiff branded "completely false" the Hungarian government's assertions that "the whole question at issue was that this Apostolic See in furtherance of

Swedes Ask Partin West Planning

Sweden, However, Plans to Act Without Any Offense to Russia by Signing Conference Asked

Sweden Would Confine Activity to Peninsula Alone

Stockholm, Feb. 14 (AP)—A Swedish source in direct touch with Scandinavian defense planning made clear today Sweden fears an eventual east-west war and wants to participate in the North Atlantic pact without risking offense to Russia by signing it.

In the course of a conference with 14 touring American newsmen, this source gave the following picture:

The Swedes would like to standardize arms with the United States.

They want raw materials from the United States to increase arms output and thus supply Norway and Denmark with a large part of their military needs.

They want to consult with western military experts on co-operation in defense.

They expect western nations to come to their aid quickly if Scandinavia should become a battleground.

If an attack should be aimed directly at Scandinavia, Sweden expects to be able to resist for several weeks or months. If war should begin in some other quarter of the world she does not contemplate immediate entrance into the conflict.

Swedish thought has been revolutionized however by sudden abandonment of the country's 135-year tradition of neutrality. Sweden has virtually no hope of remaining neutral in any third world war.

Once in any new war its position would be precarious.

Health Aid Plan Hit

Washington, Feb. 14 (AP)—The American Medical Association's substitute for President Truman's health insurance program was assailed by Rep. Dingell (D-Mich.) today as "a plan to perpetuate pauperism of the sick and helpless."

"I consider the A.M.A. proposal a cheap imitation of the real thing," he told reporters. Dingell is one of the authors of administration health legislation.

The A.M.A. announced organized medicine's alternative plan in Chicago last night, proposing expansion of voluntary hospital and medical care plans instead of federal health insurance. Some leaders in the medical profession have attacked the Truman administration plan as "socialized medicine."

Dingell said he thinks Mr. Truman's program has an "excellent chance" of passage in Congress. Some others were not so sure.

Republicans charted an all-out fight on the proposal for universal medical care insurance. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) proposed instead that the federal government help states finance voluntary health insurance programs.

Hearing on Budget To Bring Protests Against Gas Tax

Opponents May Be Heard More Vigorously Than Teacher, Union Groups

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—Opponents of an increase in the state's gasoline levy are ready to lead a full-scale attack Wednesday on Governor Dewey's proposals to raise taxes by $168,200,000 this year.

Their protests at the public budget hearing and those from taxpayer and business organizations threaten to drown out clamor from teacher and educational groups, labor unions and others for even greater spending than contemplated in Dewey's record-high budget of $936,200,000 for 1949-50.

More than 120 persons representing 85 organizations so far have asked speaking time at the budget hearing.

It will be conducted in the assembly chambers by the Senate Finance and Assembly Ways and Means committees and the Taxation Committees of both houses.

Of those scheduled to appear, the largest group comprises 26 organizations planning to attack one or all of Dewey's proposals to boost personal income, gasoline, corporate franchise and harness racing taxes.

Nine of these organizations represent automobile, trucking, and oil industry interests which are lined up against Dewey's proposal to boost the present state tax of four cents per gallon on gasoline to five cents.

They have drawn encouragement from reports of opposition to the one cent increase among some upstate Republican legislators, notably from Erie, Monroe and Onondaga counties.

Dewey has estimated the increase would yield $21,000,000 in additional revenue.

Foes of the increase contend it would make New York's gasoline tax higher than that in any of five neighboring states and would drive business from the state, particularly in border communities.

Among groups scheduled to protest any tax increase is the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, a private research agency. The survey Saturday suggested cuts in the proposed budget as a means of avoiding tax boosts.

Aligned with the survey are the Associated Taxpayers of New York, the Empire State Association of Commerce, statewide businessmen's organizations and taxpayer organizations of several localities.

In the face of anticipated protests, however, Republican legislative leaders have expressed confidence that Dewey's budget would be approved substantially as submitted to the G.O.P.-controlled Legislature Feb. 1.

Senate Leader Benjamin F. Feinberg said last week that he didn't believe there would be any concerted effort among Republican legislators to change the tax program.

The present tax program is absolutely necessary to carry into effect necessary expenditures for

Two Men Killed In Auto Accident

Four Others in Hospital; Driver Blames Strong Headlights

Two persons were killed and four injured in an automobile accident near Newburgh early Sunday morning.

State police of the Newburgh station listed the dead as Alexander Taylor, about 24, of Churchill street, and Thomas Edward Johnson, about 25, of 44 River avenue, both of Cornwall-on-Hudson.

The injured, all of whom were taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh, according to state police are William Baxter, Frank Kane, 30, Robert White, 22, all of Cornwall-on-Hudson, and Richard Gould, 20, of Cornwall.

Baxter is in critical condition at the hospital, suffering from internal injuries, and Kane, who suffered a fractured pelvis, is in serious condition, authorities reported. The others were less seriously injured and were reported in good condition today.

Richard Gould, driver of the 1937 convertible coupe in which all were riding, told state police he lost control of the car when he was blinded by headlights on an oncoming automobile. The convertible left the road on the left side, broke four fence posts, and came to rest upside down with the rear end jammed against one of the poles, state police reported.

The accident occurred at 1:50 a. m. Sunday on the River road at New Windsor, about one-half mile south of the Newburgh city line.

Serious Damage Is Averted Sunday in Uptown Hotel Fire

Huntington Residents Check the Blaze With Fire Extinguishers; Minor Water Loss

Timely discovery of a blaze which had been smoldering for some time under floor boards saved The Huntington Hotel from serious damage Sunday, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said today.

The fire, discovered shortly after 4 p. m. by Mrs. Helen Evans, was confined to an area between the third floor flooring and the ceiling of the second floor, and under a hallway closet.

Mrs. Evans, after noticing the odor of smoke in the building, discovered that the blaze was in or near the closet. Two other residents of the building, Kenneth Fitzgerald and Isaac Lawrence, used water and a fire extinguisher on the blaze and Fitzgerald called the fire department.

Central and Wiltwyck stations each sent an engine and truck and two lines of hose were connected as a precaution against possible serious spread of the fire.

The large frame structure at 23 Pearl street was purchased recently by Sidney Trinkman of New York. It houses 27 guests.

Chief Murphy said the fire had just begun to burn up one side of the building when it was discovered. It would have meant a serious battle for firemen, he said if it had been burning five minutes beyond the time it was discovered.

The blaze was quenched before serious damage resulted and the chief reported only slight damage from water.

The apartment on the third floor in the area of the fire was unoccupied, the chief said, but that on the second floor was occupied by Mrs. Beatrice Lynch and daughter. All residents of the upper floors were ordered downstairs until the fire was checked.

Origin of the blaze was undetermined, but it could have started from a cigarette, the chief said. It could have had no electrical origin, he stressed.

The owner of the hotel was in New York at the time and was notified by telephone, Mrs. Sally Haggerty is housekeeper.

Trends Are Too Early For Proof

Defiance of America Is Seen as Phase of Movement Indicating Absorption

Solidity Sought

Action Would Provide Russia With Unified Setup

By EDWARD E. BOMAR
Washington, Feb. 14 (AP)—Eastern European assaults on churchmen have stirred American suspicions that Moscow may be getting ready to discard the "Peoples Democracy" system in Soviet satellites.

They also have revived the idea that Russia is moving toward absorbing the Soviet bloc states into an expanded Soviet Union.

Top authorities on relations with the Communist world said today the trend appears to be in these directions, although it is too early to be sure either will come about. Officials are virtually unanimous, however, on one point: under pressure from Moscow, the process of shaping the satellites into the Soviet mold has now been speeded up.

Authorities read this meaning into Hungary's trial of Cardinal Mindszenty and defiance of American displeasure, the indictment of fifteen churchmen in Bulgaria, and the current purges in Poland and Czechoslovakia.

A by-product of the Mindszenty trial was the case of Selden Chapin, U. S. minister to Hungary. Hungary charged that Chapin was involved with the Cardinal in his alleged offenses, and asked the diplomat's removal. The U. S., disputing this, called Chapin home for consultation.

The U. S. expelled a Hungarian legation aide for retaliation for the forcing out of two U. S. representatives from Budapest.

The Mindszenty case, the Bulgarian, Polish and Czechoslovakian developments all are taken here to support the conclusion that the Soviet bloc is determined to crush the last remaining opposition quickly so as to present a solid front against the western world.

The satellite "Peoples Democracies" permit a continued existence of some opposition political parties, which the Communists have a free rein in putting their totalitarian system into effect. The course of recent developments has been in the direction of one-party states like Russia.

To Set Pattern
What has taken place in Bulgaria in the last two months is expected by officials to set the pattern for the other Communist-run countries. In Bulgaria the Communists and Socialists combined forces to form an overwhelming dominant Workers Party which is Communist in all but the label.

Poland likewise is in the process of setting the pattern.

Fifteen Persons Are Dead As Result of Radio Show

Quito, Ecuador, Feb. 14 (AP)—Latin temperament boiled over as the result of a vivid week-end radio show about a fictional "Invasion from Mars."

Before things quieted down in this city of more than 175,000: Fifteen persons were killed and at least 15 injured by enraged mobs, angry at the panic that had been caused.

The army was called out and used tanks and tear gas to quell the mobs.

The building housing Ecuador's principal newspaper was completely wrecked, along with its equipment and the radio station in it which made the broadcast. Damage was put at $50,000.

The government appointed the

The reaction wasn't as strong in the United States, however; although some persons there were reported to have died of fright, many prayed in the streets and men in New Jersey armed themselves and prepared to fight. But protests, though angry, were strictly vocal when people found it

52,000 Parade In Protest Over Cardinal's Verdict

New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—A police estimated total of 52,000 persons, including many non-Catholics, paraded yesterday in Jamaica, Queens, in protest against the treason trial and imprisonment of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty.

Protest meetings and prayers in churches of many denominations also marked the indignation caused by the treatment of the Roman Catholic primate by the Communist government of Hungary.

Among the Protestant churches offering prayers were more than 300 congregations of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Long Island. Bishop James Parnette de Wolfe had requested the prayers.

Many Jewish congregations in Greater New York also prayed for the Cardinal.

Action by the United States government was demanded by many of those protesting the Cardinal's treatment.

Police estimated that 160,000 persons witnessed the parade in Queens of church and veteran organizations. Catholic groups sponsored the procession.

A few Protestant ministers told their congregations not to confuse persecution for religious beliefs with persecution for political actions.

The Rev. Dr. F. Howard Callahan, of the Methodist Church of St. Paul and St. Andrew, Manhattan, told worshippers that "two great threats to world peace today are the Communist Internationale and the Romanist Internationale."

"Just now," Callahan said, "the leading spokesman for the Roman church in America wants political action" and is "calling for a crusade against Communism because Communists have tried Cardinal Mindszenty."

Tomorrow at 10 a. m. students from Catholic colleges in and around New York city will gather at the 14th Regiment Armory in Brooklyn for a solemn field Mass for Cardinal Mindszenty and all people oppressed by Communism.

Miss Bentley Cites Lack Of Early Religious Study

New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—Miss Elizabeth Bentley told 1,400 Roman Catholic college students and alumni yesterday that lack of proper religious education in her youth led her to join the Communist party.

Miss Bentley, self-confessed former Communist agent who embraced the Catholic faith last year, spoke at the 30th anniversary Communion breakfast of the Newman Clubs of the New York province.

She said that when she finished her studies at Vassar College in 1930 she was without religious beliefs, and later was an easy prey for Communism.

"In high schools I found religion smug and superficial and it seemed to have no connection with the problems of social suffering," she said. At Vassar, she continued, the professors of religion and the religious teaching itself were "equally dull and stuffy."

Miss Bentley, who has appeared as a witness before the House Committee on Un-American Activities and before a federal grand jury here, told the student clubs that during her college days atheism "was widespread throughout the country by many atheism clubs."

Discussing her childhood, she said she was raised in a Protestant family of two sects, that she went to church only to keep from being scolded, and considered religion to "be like a dose of castor oil." When her parents died, she said, she "tried to turn to religion for consolation, but found none there."

"In 1934, when I met my first Communist, I was an agnostic and a pushover for any kind of a political philosophy," she declared. During her indoctrination, she said, the Communists "put blinders on me, and I couldn't see anything else. They made a fanatic of me." She said her lack of religious faith had led to a breakdown in her faith in democracy.

She said she did not begin to doubt the worth of Communism until she met the top leaders of the party in this country. It was then, she realized, when I stood," she related. "Instead of serving the cause of humanity I was a tool for the enslavement of the people."

was just another radio show. More recently, a radio announcer at Willmar, Minn., last week dreamed up a wild animal scare that created a short-lived alarm in the area.

Radio Quito interrupted a musical program to announce "an urgent piece of news."

Then followed bulletins of the enemy approaching the city in the shape of a cloud, slaying residents and wiping out towns. Actors impersonating a government minister and the mayor begged the populace to be calm and for the men to fight.

The announcer said that from a high point he could see a monster engulfed in fire and smoke approaching the city.

That was the climax. Hysterical crowds poured out into the streets.

Program directors, discovering the panic they had caused, then revealed it was all in fun—it was only a story.

But when the mobs, many in their night clothes, found they'd been fooled they took bloody vengeance.

They attacked and burned the building of the newspaper El Comercio, which housed the radio station, hurling gasoline and flaming balls of paper. A number jumped from the burning building. Only the front of the three-story building was left standing. Police were slow to respond. Many had been sent to the scene of the reported invasion outside the city.

SCANDINAVIA KNOWS SOVIET HONOR

If Norway's dilemma could be considered in the abstract it would be simple to solve. The country has two offers. It may join a North Atlantic alliance for mutual protection against possible Russian aggression. Or it may accept a pact of friendship and non-aggression which Russia has offered.

The choice would be easy if abstract reasoning applied. Why join an alliance against aggression when you have a solemn treaty guaranteeing that such aggression will never take place? The answer would be obvious.

But Norwegian Foreign Minister Lange took off for the United States to discuss the possibility of joining the alliance almost as soon as he had received the Russian offer. The implication of this gesture was exceedingly unflattering to the Soviet government.

Reduced to essentials, it meant that Soviet policy is a fabric of lies, that the men who make that policy are untrustworthy, and that the Norwegian government knows it. It meant that Norway was forced to base its decision on the assumption that the Soviets' solemn pledges are meaningless.

There was a time, between the wars, when Communist apologists could boast that the Soviet government had never wavered on an international agreement. But that was in the days when it was expedient for the Bolsheviks, as newcomers to the community of governments, to be on their good behavior. Their hold was shaky and their problems were acute. They had enough troubles at home without inviting any from abroad. So they put up a front of honor and respectability in formal dealings with other governments.

But the war with Germany gave the Russian leaders a chance to win respect by their people's valiant fight against a common enemy. It gave them a chance to arm, and their victories gave them a chance to expand. Once they had gained a hold in neighboring countries, they were not to be turned back by any such minor detail as an obligation to live up to agreements.

So the promises to let the people of occupied countries choose their governments by free elections were quickly broken. In one Central European country after another the Russian-directed Communists took over. Protests by war-time allies were of no avail. Agreements were meaningless because honesty had been discarded as an instrument of policy no longer useful.

Norway's understanding of all this and more is evident in Mr. Lange's trip to Washington. That understanding contains an element of potential danger, for it is possible that if Norway joins the North Atlantic alliance, the Soviet government might retaliate with some measure short of war.

But, at that, Norway aligned with the west should be in a happier position than Sweden and Denmark, which apparently have chosen to put their faith in strict neutrality. For these two small countries so close to Russia know the history of Soviet trustworthiness as well as Norway does. In that knowledge, a policy of neutrality must offer a rather dubious comfort.

THE HOOVER REPORT

The Hoover Commission has begun to make its full report to Congress on the organization of the executive branch of the government. The report will be a blueprint by which the Congress could, if willing, save the taxpayers more than three billion dollars a year without reducing the useful work and services accomplished by the government. Services might in fact be improved.

The executive branch of the government is a big business, one of the biggest in the country. It is without doubt the worst run business, big or little, in the country.

The Hoover Commission has spent a year and a half making a thorough, painstaking examination of the government. It is a competent, bi-partisan group, directed by our only living former President. Its findings are clear and specific, based on knowledge and investigation, not on guess-work or pre-formed opinion.

UNITED STATES OF EUROPE
The problem that at this moment faces Norway forces every country in western Europe to ask: What does American aid actually mean beyond economic reconstruction? If American aid, even the Marshall Plan, means nothing more than raising the standard of living of western European peoples, it means too little and may cost them too much. No evidence exists yet to prove that ECA is stabilizing the currencies of European countries or is reconstructing industries or is moving European goods to European countries. There is little evidence that the tiny nationalities of Europe, some of them no larger in population or economic significance than the Bronx, are doing anything to solve their economic problems any better after a costly war than they did at the London economic conference in 1933.

Europe will not thrive on an American hand-out. And when we weary of giving them billions of dollars and fixing it for them so that they can dump the goods they make in our markets, what will they do?

And now the United States is involving itself in arming these little countries that fell like toy soldiers before the Nazis in the last war. How do we arm them, will it take Russia more than 20 days to march from Berlin to Paris? Will our arms be of greater service than the Maginot Line?

None of this, pouring money into Europe has any meaning unless with it comes a union of western European countries—not only a customs union, not only a functional union along economic lines, but a political union of states, a United States of Europe, comprising all the nations of western Europe, 270,000,000 people in all.

Less than that means duplication of economic effort. Less than that means a neighbor stilling neighbor, as if from Sweden going to the United States, where we can do without it, but not going to England, which asks if from us who cannot afford to give it to them. That sort of nationalistic cannibalism has been Europe's history for a century and now we are underwriting it through ECA, which curiously sends tobacco to countries that grow tobacco.

The British dislike a United States of Europe. What they prefer are functional arrangements, a wheat commission, a steel commission, a coal commission, things of that sort. But that is not enough. These functional operations lead to long conferences, grave misunderstandings and no results. They do not solve the problem, which is that European countries are too small, too dependent, too insecure to stand alone against the land mass that seeks to engulf them. Napoleon realized that from another standpoint. He saw it but took the wrong means to a right end; Stalin sees it and is trying to achieve the federation of Europe by conquest.

The European nationalistic politicians are playing their own funeral march and we are paying them to do it. Take Norway, for instance. Should war occur between Russia and the United States, Norway would not be a sovereign nation for 24 hours; yet were Norway a state in a United States of Europe, the whole western world would be suffering of defensive air bases along the Alaska-Greenland-Norway line in the Arctic circle, but at what risk can Norway permit us to do that when each of her neighbors can pursue a foreign policy that imperils her existence? Can Norway depend on Sweden or Denmark? Can Norway ignore the fact that Finland is a Soviet satellite and Denmark dependent upon the actual possessor of northern Germany?

If 17 nations constitute western Europe, there are 17 policies, 17 distinct attitudes toward Soviet Russia and toward the United States and toward each other. The confusion is beyond belief and the United States is paying through ECA and its plans for military support for the continuance of confusion.

And yet the solution ought to be simple for these westerners. A reconstructed western Europe. The solution lies in a United States of Europe—a voluntary state founded by sovereign nations, to include all who wish to join, even Spain and Eire, who were neutral in the last war, and Germany, who was our enemy.

By James W. Barton, M.D.

LAME BACK
In former days when a patient complained of a lame back, he was either advised to rest until the pain disappeared or to try to "work the pain out" by exercise. Both these methods of treatment often resulted in a permanent stiff or poker back.

Today, a patient with a lame back is questioned as to how and when the pain first came on—whether at rest, working or exercising, whether pain increases with exercise or increases when the patient is at rest. Generally, in the great majority of cases, if pain increases when at rest, infection is present from the teeth, tonsils, glands, gall bladder or large intestine. If pain is increased by exercise or standing on the feet, it is caused by injury or faulty standing or sitting, which causes pressure on the nerves of the spine.

While the salicylate drugs are used to allay pain and relax muscles, whether the pain is due to infection (rheumatism, arthritis) or to injury, Dr. Frank R. Ober, the noted orthopedic specialist, Boston, states that physical methods—heat, massage, electricity—are important helps in treatment.

The acutely lame back requires heat, rest and quieting drugs. Heat must be firm and the mattress flat. If the mattress sags, a board 20 inches shorter than the spring should be placed under the mattress. A board under the mattress may cause more pain, and in such cases it should not be used. Sometimes putting one or more pillows under the abdomen and lying face downward keeps the back flat or straight and takes pressure off the nerves.

Hot packs 15 to 20 minutes twice a day are helpful. Baking with heat lamp the same length of time provides relief.

Light, not deep massage, helps promote relaxation of the muscle spasm and aids the circulation. When pain is relieved and the muscles relaxed—usually a matter of a week or 10 days—and the patient gets on his feet, a well fitted corset or other support should be provided. The patient, once the corset or belt is properly fitted, should put this support on before getting up on his feet for the day.

Aboard The French Merc Train
The average Frenchman has a general knowledge of the fact that when he pays his taxes, a small portion of it goes to support the cost of a French embassy and various consulates in the U.S.A. In order to improve relations over here, but this is a vague and far-away thing, besides which, being human, he doesn't like to pay taxes.

On the other hand, when six million Frenchmen and women voluntarily contribute a personal kouspike to the Gratitude Train for the American people, it means something far more important than ambassadors or consuls or State Department propaganda.

It means that each of these six million Frenchmen considers himself a personal ambassador of good will and peace.

And when you get that kind of people-to-people relations in, it becomes increasingly difficult for unbalanced or foolhardy leaders to start wars or create friction.

In the long run, furthermore, the only way we can prevent war is by people going over the heads of their governments to get acquainted with other people.

Note—Just as the U. S. Government had nothing whatever to do with the start or organization of the Friendship Train, so the French Government had nothing to do with starting the Gratitude Train, though later it gave great help in getting the boxes to the United States.

Simple, Priceless Gifts
Some priceless gifts are aboard the "Thank-you Train," such as the Thivaud statue of George Washington and the flag that flew over Verdun in 1918. But almost more precious, in a sense, was the neatly wrapped paper parcel brought to the train by a Communist lady in Paris—because she gave it against all the dictates of her political party, because she placed friendship with Americans ahead of Communism.

Equally precious are thousands of other gifts which have no commercial or artistic value—simple offerings from the humble people of France. Aboard the train, for instance, is a gift from a workman and his wife whose home was destroyed during the war and who now live in an almshouse.

"For the Gratitude Train to America," they wrote, "we have decided to send our dearest possession, our boy's full dress uniform. It went with him when he left to fight and die in France. It will now go to the United States, in token of the brotherhood between our two countries."

And there is the child's painting of a yellow heart, with her words written beneath: "I know that Americans have hearts of gold."

Remembrance and Love
At first the humble people of France did not realize that they could contribute to the Gratitude Train. The train was first organized by French railroad war veterans, but later they got help from radio commentator Georges Delamarre, who broadcast the fact that the working people of France could also participate.

"We must feel, in offering our gifts," said Delamarre, "that we are depriving ourselves. We must take from our personal treasure store, gifts such as only France can provide. There is no more sincere way of showing gratitude than by giving what one prizes most highly."

One of the things the American people will prize most highly is the "Treasure Book," signed by the French people who put gifts aboard the Merc Train. People flocked to the office of the newspaper Figaro for more than a week to sign this book and write a message to the American people. Some wrote in English, most in French.

Wrote a soldier: "I remember." Wrote another: "France every day loves you more and more."

"More today than before. And less than tomorrow." Thousands of notes also were written to accompany gifts. And it is the hope of the men and women who sent these messages, that their friends will read the notes and will reply. Members of the Women's World Fellowship worked long hours to help translate these notes of greeting sent by the "little people" of France. They felt that, while they were poor in worldly goods, they were rich in friendship.

Unfortunately they were not able to translate all the messages; but perhaps French classes in American schools and colleges can continue where they left off, and thus start a chain of correspondence between the people of France and America in continuation of people-to-people diplomacy.

Notes from Washington
A 24-hour, round-the-clock police guard on the House Un-American Activities Committee, demanded last year by Rep. John Rankin of Mississippi, is still being maintained, though Rankin is no longer a member of the committee. Rankin demanded the round-the-clock watch after the committee seized the famous "pumpkin papers" from Whitaker Chambers. What's left of these papers after the Justice Department picked them over is locked in a safe in the Committee's office. The mail at Council, Ga., is picked up by a pet deer, owned by the postmistress, Mrs. David Johnson.

Senators studying statehood for Hawaii and Alaska, discovered that the next new state won't be the 49th but 50th in American history. Back in 1784, settlers in the Tennessee-North Carolina area proclaimed a new state which they named after Benjamin Franklin. The state of Franklin lasted only three years, then was carved up between Tennessee and North Carolina.

The navy has just cleared up the mystery of the five Russian planes that were supposed to have landed at the Norfolk Naval Air Station recently. It is true that five planes, painted with red tails, set down at Norfolk and were surrounded by a double guard, just as the rumor leaked out. But the planes were American—not Russian. Their tails were painted red to distinguish them clearly from others, because they carried some highly secret equipment.

Senator Ed Johnston of Colorado demanded an investigation of the aviation industry—to find out why the big airlines keep going in the red, yet can afford fat contributions to both the Republican and Democratic parties, plus to executives.

AS PEGLER SEES IT
By WESTBROOK PEGLER

It is a prominent fault of our unionism, and I think it will be fatal to that evil institution yet, that, from the top to the poor ignorant jellies of the so-called rank and file, no person ever thinks to suggest, even in sarcasm, that the officers of unions should be a sort of priesthood of consecrated men renouncing personal advantage and vanity. This selfishness and avarice dominates the personalities and conduct of all the prominent union leaders who have stifled the faith of the membership in unionism. The deal and repulsed the millions of others who would have been won to unions otherwise. The feeling of the loyal rank and file consequently is only a selfish and consciously predatory desire for advantage over other elements of the community, even with the knowledge that such advantages are undeserved.

Had or cynical leadership corrupts with its own badness the spirit of membership. I sometimes receive letters from the true rank-and-file sneering at the proposition that union officers should be held to a strict code and frankly admitting the likes of Dan Tobin, the president of the Teamsters, for anything that he has done for labor but for his success in providing for Dan Tobin and his sons at the expense of the workers.

In all my experience with the union racketeers, which were scrawny and furtive like coyotes until Roosevelt gave them license to prey on the country as an annex of the navy, I have never seen William Green or Philip Murray, the two great boss-presidents, to take any action against any crook for his crookedness. Green's excuse always has been that he has no constitutional right to invade the autonomy of one of his component member unions to discredit and drive out some outrageous criminal.

George Sealie and George Browne, of the Building Service Workers and the Theatrical, Stage and Movie Employees, were two conspicuous examples, but only two of a hundred that I could name and have named in the past. Green befriended them against the working people, Murray's excuse seems to have been about the same. He has been a less flagrant guilty party in different houses, his authority was minor when he was in the C.I.O. during his presidency.

Green has compared his position to that of the President of the United States, who would have no right to supersede the governor of, let us say, Georgia in scandalous circumstances. But presidents of the United States often have been less than good. I have never seen a president of the C.I.O. during his presidency. Green has compared his position to that of the President of the United States, who would have no right to supersede the governor of, let us say, Georgia in scandalous circumstances. But presidents of the United States often have been less than good. I have never seen a president of the C.I.O. during his presidency.

I have repeatedly charged Green with using the prestige of his office to support gangsters against the rank and file and to maintain them in office when, in morals, he had a duty to destroy them. He just doesn't answer me.

Murray's worst problem in the C.I.O. has been Communists. They persecuted the rank and file with impunity in many of his most important unions, embracing, altogether, about half of his subjects. Recently, by some unexpected treachery against the Communists by a small group of old fellow-travelers, Murray has been able to break the Communists' power. But I have to insist that this was a course of expediency, not principle, because, for years and years Murray not only tolerated these Communists who are now so loathsome but actively took their part against more honest men who said they should be driven out.

As a result of the example of Green and Murray and all the other strong union politicians, the non-union or unorganized American workers tried to escape the organizers and subjects in a total state would duck the tax-collector and the draft. They believe that unions have raised wages, which is a very good proposition, because the wages would have gone up just the same and prices probably would not have risen as high as they have, under cooperative forms of unionism. They believe that unions have raised wages, but many of them are shrewd enough to know that the union bosses did this out of no love for the rank and file but only to give themselves something to boast about in the great public propaganda.

Unionism for the professionals is a ferocious, dog-eat-dog business. They form cliques but they have no loyalties and they must always be on guard against dirty work. It is very much like organization politics, whose rank-and-file produces heart-break and treachery all the time.

In Washington, at coronation time, Jim Farley was twice relegated and snubbed although he actually picked Roosevelt the same as a fight-manager picks a stylish young heavyweight in "Waterbury or Canton," and he "batted" his man into the title.

In the 1948 campaign, when the Gab and Jimmy Roosevelt were prospecting around for stronger men and all the great, crooked urban bosses were fleeing from Truman, Farley stuck to him. Yet they put him behind the service-horses heaped with dirty dishes at the gala.

A young idealist in college wrote me that he would like to study government and make politics his career but had been warned of the terrible hour in the life of the party statesman when he is beaten and must clean out his desk, take down his diplomas and yellowing clam-bake, photographs and go back home with no job.

He thought there should be security for politicians.

There shouldn't be, but there is. They roll their own at the expense of ideals and public confidence in public men.

The thought would be laughed to death in any group of American professional unionists that a man should devote his years to unionism for the sake of the ideals which he prattles in his selfish fight for power.

Not greedy employers nor a hostile press but selfish, cynical boss unionists have been enemies of unionism in the United States. Copyright, 1949, King Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

This from a reader who writes: I came to life in the year 1861—all you remember, I can remember. What about the toll gate on Broadway (or Union Avenue) and what about Billy Hamilton's store, corner Main and Fair streets, and O'Reilly's woods on Broadway? The horse cars and no buildings on Broadway where the city buildings are now. On the cars early mornings, you would find men having business plans in Rondout with blanket-shawls across their knees for warmth. Dr. Hyman Ross, dentist was one, and a Mr. Van Buren. I think Mr. Van Buren was blind, but just the same he went to business each day.

Although I should hold the following story till May, Friday 13, which I just received from a gentleman in Kingston, who has given me data on the olden times. Back in the hazy days of Rondout, one Friday 13, he found he was given key for stairroom 13 and discovered he had $13 in his pocket. Nothing further.

Nothing, he said, except that he included the following clipping.

This from Fort McClellan, Ala. (not dated, but I take it during World War 2) Pvt. Melvin D. Lynch, of Kingston, N. Y., who was inducted through local board No. 13 of Kingston on the 13th of that month. He was assigned to that 13 when he arrived at Fort McClellan for basic training and slept in bed 13. When his company went on the range that week for record rifle firing, Private Lynch found himself firing on target 13. Incidentally, he carries 13 cents in his pocket, just for luck, he says. Checking up with Lester Barth, custodian of the American Legion Building where Melvin Lynch, now back from the wars visits, it seems he suffered no ill effects from his run of No. 13.

I am sure there are other strange coincidences in which Kingstonians met each other by sheer accident on some forsaken Pacific Islands or European Theatre of war. For the longer was told, in one of the old ravers in Europe, behind some ravers was found a "Kingston Freeman" from the First World War, left by the Yanks, no doubt, to be found by our present G.I's.

The U. S. is responsible, as a result of the war years, for stirring up a freedom conscience throughout the world. Questions-Answers

Q—What causes the clicks heard in an electric iron when in use?
A—This is the operation of the thermostat. When the iron reaches the desired temperature this turns off the current, then turns it on again when it has cooled a little, and so keeps it from overheating. Thus, such an iron uses current only part of the time, and it costs considerably less to operate than if it were drawing power continually.

Q—Will there be any solar eclipses in 1949?
A—Yes, there will be two partial eclipses of the sun, on April 28 and October 21, the first visible from Europe, North Africa and the North Pole; the second from Australia, New Zealand and the South Pole.

Q—Was coal used to any extent in the New England colonies?
A—Most of the coal used in the northern colonies prior to the American Revolution was imported from England. Wood was the prevailing fuel used in our country, until about 1840.

Q—Where did the ouija board get its name?
A—It is compounded from the French and German words for yes.

Two Industries Hunt Jobs To Help Men They Lay Off

Lines like this are growing longer at Unemployment Compensation offices throughout the country as jobless wait to tell their stories. To change this picture, at least two industries have turned job-hunters for men they've been forced to lay off.

By RICHARD KLEINER

N.E.A. Staff Correspondent.

Cleveland, (N.E.A.)—With the number of unemployed in this area at its post-war peak, at least two industrial concerns are trying to find jobs for men they are forced to lay off.

The two plants are a large manufacturing company here and a medium-sized jobbing foundry in nearby Medina. The latter is merely looking for "idle-them-over" work, but the former is looking for permanent jobs.

During the month of December alone, the Apex Electrical Manufacturing Company, which employs about 1350 men, laid off 240. Apex makes washing machines, vacuum cleaners, dishwashers, dryers, ironers—electric equipment which is not moving as rapidly in retail stores as it did six months ago. The resulting production curtailment makes layoffs necessary.

But Apex is trying to find its men comparable jobs at comparable pay. They wrote a letter to about 500 industries employing 100 or more men. They set up an alphabetical file of the men, by skills. As inquiries came in, they notified qualified men, interviewed them, and sent them out to the prospective job.

Apex virtually retooled its personnel office from a hiring agency to an employment agency. "It's worked remarkably well," says advertising and sales promotion manager Frank S. Ryan.

Of the 240 men laid off in December, 137 were placed. In one week in January, 36 men were referred to possible jobs. Thirty-one got them.

Some men have refused the new job, because the pay was lower than they got at Apex. Others preferring moving to a lower-paying job within Apex, so they might retain their seniority. Still others have agreed to work shorter hours, instead of being laid off.

The company keeps close tabs on the men laid off. They send them questionnaires, asking if they have found work, if they are satisfied, and similar questions. A few report that they've never used the company's bureau, but about half of those laid off have been placed.

"We made no promises when we laid them off," says Ryan. "But we expect to take at least some of them back when business picks up."

At the Permold Company, in Medina, superintendent Harold R. Doswell says Permold hopes soon to take back all the men they've had to let go. Consequently, they're only trying to find odd jobs, to tide the men over until they can be restored to Permold's payroll.

Permold is a jobbing foundry, making aluminum castings. Most of their work lately has been producing agitators for washing machines, so they've felt the cut-back in production, and have had to cut their work force.

They let 75 men go, of a normal force of 350. Some have been taken back already, as the company got new orders. They expect to take others back as more orders come in.

But, meanwhile, Permold advertised throughout Medina county. Readers offered the men odd jobs doing farm work, cutting down trees, painting and similar day-the-day and by-the-hour employment.

Doswell says they've kept no figures on the number of men placed in such jobs, "but we've been fairly successful."

He said that they were "not too anxious" to find the men steady jobs, because "we want them back." A few found permanent jobs on their own, but there are not many big plants in the Medina vicinity.

"Most of the foundries are in the same boat as Permold now," said Doswell. "They're all a bit slack."

Bill Would Permit Auto Licenses at 17

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—The joint legislative committee on motor vehicle problems says it will introduce a bill today to make 17-year-olds eligible for automobile drivers' licenses.

Senator Seymour Halpern, Queens Republican and chairman of the committee, announced Saturday that under the measure, licenses would be granted to 17-year-olds who pass a high school driving course and then pass the state's driving test. The present minimum age is 18.

The committee "favors the establishment of driver training classes in every one of the 1,000 public and parochial schools in the state," Halpern said, adding that the legislation would recommend these classes.

These courses now are offered in 200 high schools.

Locomotive Company

Reopens Main Shops

Schenectady, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—The American Locomotive Company, which announced Friday that it would close down its main shop here because of what it called a slowdown, reopened early today.

A company spokesman reported shortly after the first shift resumed work last night that operations at the diesel shop, the main plant, were "proceeding normally."

The company and Local 2054, United Steel Workers of America, announced Saturday night that a dispute which involved a procedure under current contract had been solved.

The announcement was made by J. J. Smith, plant manager, and A. F. Barbieri, president of the local.

The diesel shop, which employs more than 1,100 of ALCO's 5,000 workers, normally closes Friday nights for the week-end.

The company posted a notice on shop bulletin boards Friday that the shop would "remain closed until further notice."

"We regret that such action is made necessary by the continuing deliberate slowing and slowing of work and your failure to resume operations in accordance with the warning notice posted on Feb. 9," the notice added.

The Feb. 9 notice threatened to close the shop.

The locomotive works is the second largest industry in the city, the home of the General Electric Company.

ALCO advised employees a few weeks ago in individual letters that they would have to increase production. As an alternative, President Robert B. McCall wrote, the company would have to raise prices or move closer to the steel supply sources to offset increased freight costs.

Would Probe T.V.A.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—New York's Legislature will be asked tonight to memorialize Congress to investigate the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Assemblyman Wilson C. Van Duzer, Middle-town Republican, said today he would introduce a resolution proposing such action.

Van Duzer charged in a statement that the T.V.A. was a "self-perpetuating, uncontrollable creature of Congress which has for years squandered and wasted the taxpayers' money, committed unconstitutional acts, delegated to itself powers never contemplated in the original act by which it was created, and has refused a proper accounting to the government."

Arace Honored By Trinity College

PASQUALE L. ARACE

The late Pasquale Ralph Arace, a veteran of World War 2, was one of the 70 Trinity College men who died during the second World War to whom a new Memorial Field House was dedicated Saturday afternoon.

Arace, the son of Ralph and Mary DeLeo Arace of 17 Greenkilt avenue, died August 14, 1946 of wounds in the Veterans Administration Hospital in the Bronx, New York city.

The $455,000 structure at Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., was given as a war memorial by 4,507 alumni and friends of the college in the 125th Anniversary Development Program which raised a million and a half dollars during the past two years.

Wounded on Okinawa

During World War 2 Arace served three years as a member of the 321st Engineer Battalion of the 96th Division, and was twice wounded when he saw action at Leyte, Philippine Islands, and on Okinawa in the Ryukyus.

He entered Trinity College with the Class of 1945 and attended college for one and a half years before joining the army. He was one of the first men to land on Leyte where he was later wounded. Major J. L. Bradley awarded the Purple Heart to the Pacific veteran for wounds received on Okinawa. He was discharged from service January 14, 1946.

Spacious Layout

The new field house at Trinity College is half as large as a football field. A regulation baseball infield can be marked out on its dirt floor, or with a removable hardwood floor and grandstand, it can become a basketball arena with a 2,500 spectator capacity.

With its sports annex containing offices, locker rooms, sports and equipment rooms, it brings the value of Trinity's physical education plant to more than a million dollars and provides long-needed indoor sports facilities.

Brigadier General Archie J. Old of the United States Air Force was the principal speaker at the solemn academic, religious and military dedication ceremony on Saturday. Color guards from four American and two foreign military services in which Trinity men died also participated.

Faster Schedules

New York, Feb. 14 (AP)—Faster operating schedules for 17 trains running between New York and Boston, effective March 1, were announced yesterday by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company. Laurence F. Wigmore, the railroad's president, said one train, the "Merchants Limited," will make the run between Back Bay station, Boston, and New York's Grand Central Terminal in three hours and 55 minutes—fastest in the line's history. He said the "Yankee Clipper" will be speeded up 15 minutes to make the run in four hours and 10 minutes.

Colonials Name Julie Laviano New Kingston Manager

Is Surprise Selection

Appointment of Julie Laviano, 35-year-old minor league veteran as manager of the Kingston Colonials for the 1949 Colonial League race was announced today by Ted Laviano, president of the franchise.

The designation of the Colonials' substitute catcher for 1948 will come as a surprise to many fans but Laviano's OB record indicates he has the experience and background for the job.

Laviano succeeds Eddie Kobesky, hard hitting pilot who was released several weeks ago and who has since signed as manager of the Batavia, N. Y. club in the Pony League.

Tough Job Ahead

"I think Julie will make a very good manager for us," brother Ted Laviano said. "He will be given a free hand to run the ball club as he sees fit and the fact that we are brothers will have no bearing on his job. If I feel he is not doing a good job, he will be treated just like any other player."

Brother Ted admitted that brother Julie has a big job ahead of him. Gone are Max Goldsmith and Eddie Kobesky, two of the better hitters of 1948. They are gaping holes behind home plate and at first base. The club needs new power to be a factor in the 1949 race.

A brother of the club president, Julie Laviano appeared in 297 games last season and batted .247, with 21 hits in 85 times at bat. He relieved Max Goldsmith in the latter stages of the campaign and distinguished himself with several timely hits. Behind the plate, Laviano is a polished receiver and a good handler of pitchers.

Known as Hurler

Kingston fans were impressed by Laviano's hustle last year and are aware of the fact that he handled the team in the final stages of the season.

Laviano has had a colorful minor league career that carried him as high as Syracuse in the International League. He also played with Williamsport of the Eastern League, Richmond in the Piedmont and Charleston in the Penn State circuit.

During the war, Julie was a member of the Sampson Naval Station unit. He served as athletic instructor at Sampson and was also boxing coach.

The new Colonial manager also served as scout for the Washington Senators for two years and is credited with signing the present Senator third baseman, Eddie Yost. He also scouted pitcher Walker Cress, who is now with the Cincinnati Reds.

Laviano is married and has a son. He resides at Woods, Long Island, and recently purchased a share in a sporting goods concern.

Joe Duff's flat-footed 400 led a bizzaro scoring session in the Hercules League Friday night, and it will be a long time before anything like those scores happen again.

For instance, Joe's 215-225-160-600 led the loop with plenty to spare but there wasn't a single other score of 500 or better. As pace the Y National loop to beat total was a 486 "blind" on Joe's own squad. The rest were all four hundreds and under.

W. Bornbeck pounded the Y drives for 178-191-192-561 to pace the Y National loop to best out Herbie Sleight by 3 sticks. Sleight rolled 171-194-133-348.

Other good totals saw Sam Hays with 227-509; Jim Roe 578; Ed Duff 535; Bob Woolsey 525; Art Davis 200-342; Junior Wondley 515; Ed Greenberg 501; Frank Roe 513.

Len Trever freballed his way to 158-75-81-522. Nobody else reached the five-hundred mark but other respectable totals in the Jacobsa Mixed League were Paul Kheider's 461 and Joe Heidecamp 471.

Ad Jones had a thumping 628 on the Y drives Friday night to pace the Y Mercantile session. The milk loop posted scores of 225, 194 and 242.

"Pop" Spadafora shot 224-532; E. Mayhew 222-521; Selmer 503; Ernie Magnusson 234-528; veteran John Fable posted 202-200-378; Tom Rowland 225; Eddie Marka 508.

Winnie Overfield's 416 was high series in the Stars of Tomorrow women's circuit at the Bowldrome. The Skyline leadoff shot scores of 120, 176 and 140. Marie Kelekian shot 423 and Faye Horne 410 for other counts over four hundred.

Douglas, playing his second year on the tournament trail, shot 22 on the par for 72 holes to win $2,000 first money with a total of 268. His final round was a blistering 65 over Brackenridge Park's 6,400-yard par 71 course yesterday.

It edged Sammy Sneed of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., by a stroke. Sneed wound up with a five-under par 66 and a 72-hole total of 269.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, who didn't play here and who was the leading money-winner of the year until yesterday, will join the tour at Houston after laying off a week.

Skee Riegel, of Tulsa, Okla., was the low amateur of the Texas Open with 283 but was not among the top 20 finishers, all of whom were pros. Riegel got a silver tray, Doug. Ford of Leavenworth, N. Y., and James Bardsley of Kingsville, Tex., were second-low amateurs with 285 each.

Sewing Machine Class

Recently 13 Ulster county homemakers met to learn their sewing machines under the direction of Philip Wilson, agricultural engineer. There was an estimated savings of approximately $10 for each homemaker present.

Mr. Wilson told the group that how often a machine is cleaned depends upon the amount of work it does and where it is stored. In cleaning a machine he suggested that they use some cleaning fluid recommended by the oil companies for that purpose or gasoline which does not contain lead.

The different parts of the machine were cleaned thoroughly with cleaning fluid. They were put back in place and then oiled. The machine is oiled where two parts move together or at the bearing surfaces. A machine should be oiled every time it runs about 10 hours, it was stated.

Mr. Wilson explained to the group that different make machines take different length needles. When buying machine needles the length of the needle as well as the size should be considered.

There was a discussion on regulating the tension of machines. Mr. Wilson demonstrated this to the group. One of the home-makers attending the school had a brand new portable machine that had never worked properly since she purchased it. By adjusting the timing and tension, the machine was fixed so that it stitched perfectly.

Another homemaker learned that she had been using the wrong type of oil on her machine. The oil she had been using gummed up the machine so much that it did not stitch properly.

Those who attended the sewing machine school learned a great deal about their own machine. How to oil, adjust the tensions and care for them properly in the future were some of the points explained.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "Children Are People," etc.)

This letter comes from a young girl: "In my spare time I work in my father's office. There, at home, I call him Dad or Father. I have been criticized for this. It is thought I should call him Mr. Jones, which is very surprising to me. I won't believe it unless you say it is true and give me the reason why it is proper for anyone to call her father 'Mr.'"

If your father's office is in a small and friendly town and all of the customers know you both personally, you would call each other what you do at home. But if his office is so large and busy that he cannot explain to everyone that you are his daughter, it would be more business-like for you to call him "Mr. Jones" and he also call you "Miss Jones."

Gift to a Man

Dear Mrs. Post: A man whom I have seen much of for several months sent me a very beautiful rose on my birthday. Now comes the question of what I am to send him on his birthday. Not flowers, of course, but what else is equally impersonal?

Answer: In the short time of a few months' friendship, it is not expected that you send him anything. However, you might telephone to wish him many happy returns of the day.

Bad Taste on Radio

Dear Mrs. Post: How should a married woman give her name on a radio program? I've just been on a program and when asked my name by the announcer, I said, "Mrs. John Smith." But he promptly asked me what my first name was. Thereafter, I was called by it.

Answer: Your answer, "Mrs. John Smith," was correct and the announcer should not have presumed to have called you anything else. In fact, few examples of bad taste are more flagrant than that of the radio announcers who insist upon calling strangers who are their guests by their first names. Such manners undoubtedly are meant to be friendly but actually they are an impertinence. To a school girl or boy that is another matter.

What size visiting card should one choose? Should young people have visiting cards? When should cards be used? These and many other questions are answered for you in Mrs. Post's leaflet, E-20. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to her, in care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station C, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

ELLENVILLE NEWS

Ellenville, Feb. 12.—The Ellenville Board of Education, which is making a study of building to meet school requirements, had with them at their meeting Tuesday night the Churchill-Fulmer Associates of New York city, architects. The board was given a cost analysis of a 25-room elementary school with cafeteria, library, offices and a combination gymnasium-auditorium. A type of construction which it was believed would best meet the needs of the community was pointed out. As a solution to school heating problems a plan for radiant heating from the ceilings of classrooms was suggested. On recommendation of Supervising Principal Duffield the board agreed to add a teacher to the Home Economics Department and approved Miss Adele Eckstein and Miss Regina McAuliffe as summer playground supervisors during July and August. The application of Bernard Woyak, a graduate of St. Lawrence University, as a teacher of social studies was approved.

No opinions wanted!

Each day we get letters from readers. They praise and condemn, approve and protest. They are a yardstick of freedom. As long as you can pick up your pen and express your opinions, one way or the other, about something that appears in this newspaper, you are a free citizen. And when you cannot comment because this newspaper cannot print the facts and opinions that stir you to write, freedom in this country is dead.

Look through this issue. Note the array of happenings, good and bad, that are reported so that you can be informed and shape your life accordingly. Read the opinions—ours and those of lawmakers, labor leaders, businessmen and educators. Some may please. You may disagree with others. But they are here for you to read, study, accept or reject as you wish.

Imagine not being able to do so! Don't think it can't happen. When the war was raging, you were concerned about freedom. Perhaps for the first time you saw how much people need a free press in order to be free. Because Mussolini and Hitler are dead, don't take it for granted that freedom is safe. To keep it intact calls for ceaseless vigilance.

Today there are men and women—some well-meaning but short-sighted, some malignant—who would enslave you. They form committees, pass high-sounding resolutions and agitate for laws.

One of their first attacks is on your freedom to know. They would deny you access to information—facts and opinions—except that which they claim is good for you. In effect they want no opinions published except their own. They know that, if they can control what you read, they can control your mind. They seek to limit the free exchange of facts and opinions now available. They talk about the necessity of limiting the press. When they say that, they mean limiting you.

Freedom of the press doesn't belong exclusively to newspapers. It belongs to everyone. The newspapers are minority owners. Freedom of the press means freedom to read as well as freedom to publish. When newspapers become propaganda mouthpieces, they are not free—and neither are you.

The choice is yours. You can shut off your access to what is going on in this country and throughout the world by following these self-styled leaders. Or you can refuse to be led into ignorance and slavery—refuse to give up your right to know as a self-governing free citizen.

Too Much Freedom?

By FRANK TRIPP

I wonder if we Americans who get where we are through precious freedom for which men died aren't getting confused about what freedom really is. Lately freedom seems to encompass acts which threaten to destroy our freedom.

Almost every class and stratum of our society claims some specific sort of freedom, whether or not it encroaches upon the freedom of others or aims toward destruction of freedom for all.

Such as, for example, the big fuss over whether or not a man should declare that he is not a Communist.

Our government is engaged in a struggle against Communism, a world-wide crusade to stop the spread of Communism; to prevent a Communist war which could end civilization.

Still is considered an encroachment upon their civil liberty when some people are asked to say that they are not Communists. I don't get it.

IF IT IS RIGHT that we go all out to keep Communism from our shores and to suppress its teachings, what in the name of Heaven is wrong with demanding to know the status of our own servants and citizens? We have the right to know who by their authority, their votes or by rebellion can nullify all that we are doing; could sabotage the very institutions which sustain our freedom.

We are babes in the wood and suckers of first magnitude, deserving of the chaos which we court, if we do not demand loyalty to our government and insist upon learning where disloyalty exists. That should go for everybody.

Why should anybody object to saying that he is not a Communist unless he is one? The answer is obvious and frightening. That to do so encroaches upon civil liberty, because, by the hocus-pocus of confounding propaganda, liberty and freedom have been twisted to mean the right of a dissenter to do as he pleases—short of murder.

IN MY BOOK one of the most insidious of distorted class freedoms is so-called "academic freedom." It was reasonable in its purpose, that one's religion, politics or beliefs should not bar him from teaching.

Yet the soundest of all teachers the church, never went that far. Two Bouds of Regents, in New York and the State of Washington, at long last have taken notice that philes and outlaws can may be hiding behind academic freedom whilst pumping Communism into the flexible minds of our children.

Academic freedom, when thus abused, is skulking, undercover sabotage of young intellectuals—more dangerous than the atomic bomb. It bores where dictators work, on youth and children.

Given time it will create a generation whose best interests will seem to them to be the overthrow of our government. It can be accomplished with sugar-coated slogans and impassioned phony diatribes in defense of personal freedoms—which always intrigue youth.

THAT IS an old trick of destroyers—to make those whom they would destroy believe that they are doing something nice for them. It is the trick by which Marxists, Hitlerism, all isms lure even educated men into dangerous thinking—the trick which disguised ultimate poverty and national disaster into tools by which deceived peoples helped tyrants gain their power.

In New York State the Regents demand overhauling of the syllabus, to teach history, now afflicted by foreign ideologies which misused "academic freedom" let creep in. At the University of Washington, the Regents ousted three professors, charging Communist activities, and put three others on probation.

The ousted professors took their case to their national professors' union and declared the action "cannot and will not be permitted to stand," that is a "blow to academic freedom and civil liberty."

WHICH IS TO SAY that parents can have no protection against teachers who expose students to things which solid Americans would have their children avoid.

The whole issue is: Do teachers owe allegiance to the schools which hire them; shall they teach what their schools endorse, what parents buy, with open eyes, to be taught to their children; shall teachers' Americanism be beyond question?

Or, under the guise of "academic freedom" shall teachers be permitted to teach, or to incite by contact, their individual conceptions, translations, religion, politics, foreign philosophies—even Communism itself?

The vast majority of teachers are staunch and true Americans, loyal to their schools and their charges. They and their union should be the first to expose the philes and reds in their ranks and purge their profession of them.

Blizzards Plague West Once Again

(By The Associated Press)

The misery-dealing great plains blizzards had opened a broad new front in North Dakota today with the worst 24 hours of weather the west has had in two weeks.

Six North Dakota counties were added to the disaster area as a result of week-end storms which stalled relief and rescue operations in some parts of Nebraska and reduced them by 50 per cent in others.

A minor tornado damaged a few buildings at Edina, in southwestern Kansas, and in Alvarado, Tex., strong winds lifted some residences from foundations and scattered them over a wide area.

There were no fatalities at either place, but damage at Alvarado was estimated at $50,000.

In Southern California, temperatures sank deep into sub-freezing levels again, necessitating more orchard heating. Minimum readings of 24 degrees were expected today in some sections of the citrus fruit region.

The 500 passengers on three trains stalled for several days at Rawlins and Hanna, Wyo., were rescued and taken to Cheyenne in buses.

The new North Dakota emergency area embraces six southwestern counties. Additional snow fighting equipment was moved into the 7,500 square mile area today from other sections where the need for it was less acute.

The Red Cross has begun a survey of urgent need with the use of six ski planes. Farmers and ranchers were reported in need of food and fuel.

Major Gen. Lewis A. Pick sent a staff of officers to open headquarters for the rescue work at Fort Lincoln, in Bismarck, and ordered 24-hour duty at the post.

Two crews have been dispatched on 50-mile snow-removal drives, one toward Mott in Hettinger county, the other from Belldale to Bowman. Prospects were that weather conditions would not be favorable for the work.

Worst Since February 2

General Pick said the storm in some parts of Nebraska was the worst in the relentless series since February 2. At Neligh and Alliance work of removing the snow was virtually halted during the Saturday storm, and at Valentine about 80 per cent of the equipment had to be withdrawn from operations.

In South Dakota, the army had opened 921 miles of roads but the gain was lost by wind which choked off another 1,000 miles by drifting snow.

Despite additional snowfall of two to six inches in Wyoming, the Union Pacific Railroad hoped to clear today the last stretch of its snow-clogged right-of-way between Rawlins and Rock Springs, Wyo., and to resume operations of trains, but strong winds again were whipping up new drifts. Two trainloads of hay arrived at Green River yesterday and ranchers started clearing roads for quick movement of the feed to their hungry livestock herds.

Freezing rain was reported falling today in portions of Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and north Texas, with the rain falling eastward through the Ohio valley to Pennsylvania, New York and central New England.

Temperatures were below zero in northwestern Wisconsin, northern Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas, eastern Montana, and parts of Utah, Wyoming and Nevada. In the south, northwest and eastern sections of the country the mercury was around normal.

Montreal Family Killed

Maxville, Ont., Feb. 14 (AP)—All seven members of a prominent Montreal family were killed last night in the crash of an airplane in which they were returning home from a visit to the Ottawa district. The twin-engined monoplane developed trouble about 30 minutes after it took off from the Ottawa airport and crashed near a farmhouse six miles north of this southeastern Ontario town.

The dead were Wallace C. Siple, president of the Siple Aircraft Company, Montreal; his wife, Anne Irene; and their five children, ranging in age from four to 11 years. They had been visiting Siple's parents at Hawkesbury, Ont., about 30 miles north of here.

Bills Proposed in Legislature

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 14 (AP)—State Senator Thomas C. Desmond is renewing his campaign for a one-house legislature in New York.

The Newburgh Republican announced he would introduce a constitutional amendment tonight to replace the present two houses of 56 Senators and 150 Assemblymen with a single house of 57 members, elected by proportional representation.

One member would be elected for each 60,000 votes in each of 13 districts, Desmond said.

Similar proposals by Desmond in recent years have died in committee.

His proposal would continue salaries of legislators at $5,000 a year.

"A one-house legislature," Desmond said, "is the fundamental change in New York State government most needed. It will make for both efficiency and economy. The present total of $1,030,000 in salaries for 206 legislators alone will be cut to $285,000."

Desmond said the State's legislative costs were $4,000,000 a year or more than the combined costs of California, Michigan, Ohio, Texas and Wisconsin.

He added: "A one-house legislature will make possible a drastic cut in this bill, modernize our law-making machinery and make it more responsive to the people's wishes."

Under a one-house legislature, Desmond contended, "bills in the public interest will not be so easily lost or die in committee as they so often do in the confusion of our two-house legislature."

He said also it would be easier for the public to keep informed of what takes place and that lobbyists for special interests would find "it more difficult to slip bills through."

Pope: Acts Spell... Reds May Take...

plans for political domination of nations gave instructions to oppose the republic of Hungary and its rulers.

"We are doing," the Pontiff continued, "what the outraged rights of the church and the dignity of the human person clearly demand."

This apparently was a reference to the excommunication of all those involved in the arrest, trial and imprisonment of the Hungarian prime minister and his sentencing to life imprisonment in Budapest last week.

The Pontiff's allocation contained no mention of further ecclesiastical punishment.

Speech of Sorrow

It was a speech phrased in sorrow rather than anger.

The Pope said the "treacherous faith of the Catholics of Hungary" was a consolation to him.

There was solace also "from the unflinching confidence we cherish in our paternal heart, that the Hungarian episcopate, acting always in complete harmony of principle and practice, will labor with every resource at their command to strengthen the unity of the faithful and to buoy them up..." the Pontiff said.

He added he also had been comforted by "fervid letters and telegrams" expressing "reprobation for the outrage offered the church" by the Prime Minister's arrest.

Saturday, the Pontiff called for special Masses to be said throughout the Catholic world April 3 "to expiate the crime of the enemies of God."

Although he did not mention Communism by name, the Pontiff asserted "a conspiracy has been formed against the Lord" in certain countries.

Cardinal Mindszenty was the first Cardinal in modern times arrested while actually wearing the purple of a Prince of the Church.

Mothers Bake Cookies.

Three Children Die

Minneapolis, Feb. 14 (AP)—Three children burned to death in a city-owned quonset hut while their mothers were busy next door making cookies for a Valentine party today.

The dead were Wayne 4, Thomas Robinson 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Robinson, and Darrell Magnuson, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Magnuson, occupants of an adjacent hut.

The three children were playing in the Robinson quarters Sunday while their mothers baked Valentine cookies in the Magnuson hut apartment next door.

cess of combining Socialists with the Communists. The one step remaining is to outlaw all parties but the Communist.

Some officials believe the process is nearing completion and look for Bulgaria or another of the group to proclaim the first new one-party state possibly in a few weeks. More cautious authorities suspect the present facade may be retained indefinitely even though all the Soviet bloc countries become actually a bloc party police states.

Russia is in the position to gain economically as well as politically in either event through the creation of the new Communist "Council for Economic Mutual Aid" (CEMA). Moscow proclaimed this to be a counterpart of the west's Marshall plan recovery agencies.

American officials are convinced that CEMA is actually a device for syphoning off a greater share of eastern European production for Russian benefit.

Kuhn Declares Justice No Part Of German Court

Munich, Germany, Feb. 14 (AP)—Fritz Kuhn, former German-American Bund leader, angrily protested today against German justice on appeal from his 10-year sentence as a major Nazi offender.

Kuhn—haggard and jittery—appeared before a three-man German Appellate court. He was sentenced in absentia after he escaped from prison at Dachau, near Munich. He later was recaptured and has been held since in a prison camp at Nuernberg.

Questioned about the purposes of the German-American Bund, Kuhn denied it had political ties with the Third German Reich, and strove only to cement relationships between the two countries.

He insisted that the organization fought Jews not because they were Jews but because they hated Germany.

The Swastika, he asserted was "only a symbol" used by the Bund, and that it was an old American Indian design.

"It was always displayed behind you, the leader," a judge remarked drily.

Kuhn's son, Walter, was his only relative to appear in court. His counsel said his wife was too excited to appear.

At a court recess Kuhn gestured angrily and cried: "This German court justice, it is not justice. You don't get justice in a German court."

Asked if he would prefer an American court, he replied loudly, "anytime an American court, anytime."

His son talked briefly with Julius Harf, prosecutor, and Harf told him to leave.

"I will not leave," the teen-aged youth said heatedly. "This is freedom." Then with tears of anger in his eyes he shouted:

"My father's been in jail years already, why doesn't he leave him alone?"

Less than 30 spectators watched as Kuhn testified.

Asked if he would make an attempt to return to America if freed from his sentence, Kuhn said:

"America, excuse me, I am too nervous to talk about that now. These German courts. This is the first time I ever have appeared before a German court. It is not justice here."
